On August 26, 2010, certain DePuy hip replacements were recalled by DePuy Orthopaedics, Inc., a unit of Johnson & Johnson. The recalled products are:

ASRXL Acetabular System
ASRHip Resurfacing System

The DePuy hip implants were recalled because the DePuy hip products cause tissue damage, pseudotumors and osteolysis which requires surgery to remove and replace the hip implant. DePuy ASRHips have been implanted since 2005 in the U.S.
